

At Pudsey Bolton Royd we understand the importance of Geography in our everyday lives. Our planet is constantly developing and changing over time so it is important that children develop a knowledge of places and people beyond the world that they might experience. We teach a balanced curriculum that builds upon previous knowledge and skills, which engages the children in the wider world and the local environment through enquiry and first-hand experiences such as educational visits. Our Geography curriculum is designed to develop children's curiosity and fascination about the world and its people, which will remain with them for the rest of their lives.